SEVEN TOWNS LEFT STRICKEN AND DESERTED

Fabled Bar Harbor, 6 Other Communities Reported Virtually Wiped Out.

By The Associated Press

BAR HARBOR, Me., Oct. 24—This fabled summer playground of the rich, and six other communities, were virtually wiped out today as strong winds fanned woodland fires ravaging New England into fresh fury with the death toll already at nine and property damage mounting above $26,000,000.

A spectacular all-night evacuation by land and sea—a peacetime Dunkerque—left Bar Harbor a deserted town as 3,500 townsfolk fled in fright before flames that leveled from 200 to 300 homes, including summer showplaces of the international society set.

Damage to the ruined mansions in this town alone was officially set at $8,000,000—not counting the loss of valuable art treasurers and furnishings they contained.

As north winds blew up to a force of 25 miles an hour throughout the region this morning—gaining momentum all the time—the outlook was grim with still no appreciable amount of rain in sight.

Light Sprinkles Seen

Light sprinkles are the best that can be expected before at least Saturday, and probably longer—in view of meteorologists—to wet down baked woodlands as the dry spell went into its 24th day.

While the raging flames were checked in Bar Harbor, fears were expressed that perhaps it was only temporary.

"All we've done is stop the fire in the town," said Selectman Seth Libby. "A little more wind would raise a lot of hell."

Three New England states—Maine, Massachusetts and New Hampshire—were virtually on a war-time footing as National Guardsmen, Legionnaires and other agencies were called out to fight the flames and care for the thousands of refugees.

Just before noon, between 12 and 15 fires were reported still roaring out of control in Massachusetts, where the loss already is placed at well above $500,000.

In New Hampshire, shifting winds were driving the flames directly at the heart of the industrial city of Rochester at the foot of the White Mountains.

School Children Held

With the edge of the fire within two miles of that city of 16,000, school children were being kept concentrated in the event they have to be evacuated.

Massachusetts' State Forester Raymond J. Kenney said "our fate depends a lot on the weather and the winds—but if we held during the night in the teeth of those winds I think we can hold anything."

Meanwhile, the Coast Guard cutter McCulloch bucked mountainous seas during the night after leaving Boston to drop anchor at Bar Harbor at 9:15 a. m., preparatory to landing special crews and medical supplies.

Four known deaths attributable to the flames were reported by authorities. Unconfirmed reports said three more lives were lost in a boat collision during the evacuation.

Most of the evacuees, convoyed by Air Force troops through a flame-lined, single road to the mainland, were sheltered at Ellsworth.

They told of a "terrifying" crescent of flame that descended on their homes—"like a big furnace around us," said Mrs. Andrew Walls, 49.

Mrs. Walls, after hours of waiting on a chilly, wind-swept pier, was one of hundreds evacuated in lobster boats, pleasure craft and Coast Guard vessels.

Island Cut Off

Two thirds of the refugees made their escape in the afternoon, before the flames reached the road.

For three hours the island was cut off. In the belief that a mass evacuation by sea would be necessary, the Navy and Coast Guard sent 10 ocean-going craft speeding to the port.

Dynamiting of buildings, and a lucky shift in the wind, barred the flames from the business district, which is next to the waterfront.

Fire equipment and men came to the island from as far as a hundred miles away.

TRUMAN CALLS CONGRESS BACK NOVEMBER 17

Will Report to Nation Tonight at 10 His Reasons for Special Session.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—President Truman drafted a report to the nation today on his "compelling reasons" for ordering a special session of congress Nov. 17 to meet a billion-dollar economic emergency in Europe and to check "alarming" inflation at home.

The Chief Executive is scheduled to broadcast the report over all national radio networks at 10 tonight.

Officials predicted that it will be a sweeping analysis of the critical economic conditions Mr. Truman sees this nation confronted with both here and abroad.

It will set forth in detail what the President himself called the "compelling reasons" for summoning the lawmakers back to Washington seven weeks ahead of their regular January convening date. And it will furnish the background against which, upon the actually convening, he will recommend a three-point program of action to the Republican-led congress.

Announces Proclamation

Mr. Truman made that much clear yesterday when, toward the close of a tensely active day, he read newsmen an announcement that he had just signed a special session proclamation.

Less than an hour before the President had informed a conference of Republican and Democratic congressional leaders of his decision to take that action. Earlier in the day he had met with his cabinet for two hours and 35 minutes—a record session for his administration.

To the news conference he said he had given the congressional leaders "detailed information concerning the alarming and continuing increase in prices in this country and the situation regarding the need for emergency foreign aid." He later referred to this as the "crisis in western Europe."

His designation of Nov. 17 as the date for congress to meet came as a surprise to the capital, which had thought in terms of a special session in December if there was to be one at all.

3 Points Stressed

But Mr. Truman said the need was urgent for legislative action on (1) high prices, (2) foreign aid and (3) consideration of the Marshall program to help European nations help themselves toward recovery.

Republican leaders readily agreed with the Chief Executive's right to call the session. But several made clear his recommendations will be rigorously examined. Some suggested the Republicans may come up with their own alternate measures.

Western European diplomats here hailed the President's action as indicating a way out for their hard-pressed countries and a shot-in-the-arm for people discouraged by the slow progress of the Marshall plan to date.

Information from both congressional and administration sources indicated the President's three-point program for the special session will follow these broad lines:

▶Appropriations probably totaling around $1,000,000,000 for aid to Europe and for relief in the American-occupied areas of Germany, Japan and Korea. Of the total $642,000,000 is tentatively slated to tide over France and Italy until March 31; upwards of $30,000,000 would go to Austria, and the rest would be for the occupied areas, most of it for Germany.

▶Legislation to check what the President called inflation, high prices and the high cost of living. On this score Mr. Truman may ask authority to reinstate time payment controls expiring Nov. 1 to ration among industrial users such scarce commodities as grain and steel, to buy export food supplies direct from farmers and to take other measures he considers anti-inflationary. He is reported not to be considering any return to OPA-type rationing and price controls.

MARION JOINS CAB ACTION

Joins Other Cities and Airlines in Asking Reopening of Route Case.

Marion is among eight Ohio cities to file application with the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington yesterday for reconsideration of the so-called "Great Lakes Area" case involving air service to 13 states.

Other cities filing were Columbus, Dayton, Cincinnati, Akron, Canton, Youngstown and Springfield.

The Ohio group is among a total of 22 cities and airlines that have asked the CAB to virtually reopen the entire Great Lakes area case decided Sept. 3 of this year.

Marion like most of the Ohio cities is seeking a reconsideration of the board's denial of north-south trunkline air service.

Petition Submitted

Marion submitted its petition to the CAB earlier this month on Oct. 2 asking in particular that the board reconsider its denial of Eastern Airlines application for through one carrier service north and south.

The city was granted three route service by Trans World Airlines, two north-south and one east-west. The north-south service, however, did not provide Marion with through connections to key southern cities, a fact pointed out in Marion's petiton for reconsideration of the case.

Eastern Airlines, also filing, is asking reconsideration of its proposal to establish an extension of its Miami-Louisville-Chicago route from Louisville to Cleve-

SENATE RECORD USED AS BASIS FOR '48 BID

Ohioan To Stick to Job, Make No Extensive Campaign for Nomination.

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Oct. 24—Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R-Ohio), using his dynamic leadership in the recent congress as a stepping stone to the White House, announced today that he will seek the 1948 Republican nomination for president.

Taft's decision was contained in a letter to state G. O. P. Chairman Fred Johnson in which he accepted the endorsement of the Ohio G. O. P. executive committee. It was based on the public's reception to the record of the 80th congress.

The text of Taft's acceptance letter read, in part:

"I shall be glad to permit my name to be submitted as a candidate for the presidency and accept the support of the Republican state central and executive committee.

"Wide Open Race"

"From observations made on my western trip and information from many other states, the situation with regard to the nomination is wide open, and I have been encouraged by numerous offers of support from all parts of the country."

Taft said that he will not conduct a political campaign for the nomination because his "first and pressing obligation in 1948 is to do my work as a United States senator." He said he had no present intention of entering any state primaries.

The senator asked that his campaign manager, Rep. Clarence J. Brown, (R-Ohio), and Katharine K. Brown, national committeewoman, handle the formation of committees "and other work in my behalf."

Facing the vehement opposition of labor unions and singled out as "whipping boy" by President Truman, his likely opponent if he wins the nomination, Taft was the second Republican to make a public bid for the nod at the National convention in Philadelphia next June.

Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor, was the first Republican to announce his candidacy. Later two joint appearances of Taft and Stassen caused speculation, denied by both, that they would join forces to stop Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Started Year Ago

Taft, chairman of the senate Republican policy committee, actually started his second drive to capture the presidential nomination almost a year ago when he declined chairmanship of the senate finance committee to guide labor legislation through congress.

As head of the senate labor committee, Taft co-authorized the Taft-Hartley labor law and incurred the hatred of union leaders. The recent AFL convention voted $3,000,000 to work for repeal of the law. Walter Reuther, president of the UAW-CIO, said, "We'll see Taft in hell" before in the White House.

Taft, 58, made a bold bid for the G.O.P. nomination in 1940, but lost out in the last-minute surge of the late Wendell Willkie. In 1944 the eldest son of the late President William H. Taft stepped aside for John W. Bricker who won second place on the unsuccessful ticket.

Bricker, subsequently elected to the senate, promised all-out support to Taft early this year, assuring him of the solid support of the state's Republican delegation and a grip on the 53 Ohio convention votes.

Taft's candidacy was termed the "inevitable result" of his record in congress and a five-week speaking tour of the west and midwest in which he stated his views on every major issue during a fighting, aggressive attack on the Roosevelt-Truman administration.

Full-Dress Tour

The tour was the nearest thing to a full-dress presidential campaign ever seen in an off-year. It will be followed by a 10 or 20-day swing through four southwestern states next month.

The senator arranged a heavy speaking schedule starting tomorrow in Cleveland at the City club and a meeting of smaller Business of America association. Oct. 28 he will address the National Associations of Attorneys General and Cost Accountants in two talks at Boston. He will return to Cincinnati Nov. 3 to address a Kiwanis meeting, Nov. 10 will speak to the Ohio Society of New York in New York City and before the Chamber of Milwaukee Nov. 17.

Taft predicted after the western tour that the Republican party would elect a president in 1948.

"None But the Lonely Heart" Cited as Example of 'Red' Film

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—Mrs. Lela Rogers of Hollywood cited the picture "None But the Lonely Heart" to the house un-American activities committee today as "a splendid example" of Communist propaganda in the movies.

The picture was handled "in the Russian manner," Mrs. Rogers said. She told the committee she manages the affairs of her screen actress daughter, Ginger Rogers, and described herself as "a writer of sorts," and a dramatic coach, and manager.

Mrs. Rogers said she recommended against filming "None But the Lonely Heart" because it was filled "with despair and hopelessness." She read it, she explained, to determine if it would be a suitable starring vehicle for Gary Cooper, then under contract to RKO, for whom Mrs. Rogers was working.

Nevertheless, she said, RKO bought the story and playwright Clifford Odets was called in to do the scenario and direct the movie.

Odets Called Communist

"For years I had heard that Mr. Odets was a Communist," Mrs. Rogers added.

Robert E. Stripling, chief committee investigator, interjected that the committee will present later a "voluminous record" on Odets' activities.

Mrs. Rogers said the late columnist O. O. McIntyre had referred publicly to Odets as a member of the Communist party and "I never saw that denied."

Background music for the movie, she said, was written by Hans Eisler, admitted former Communist.

Mrs. Rogers said she agreed with criticism of the movie that it was "moody and gloomy * * * in the Russian manner.

Example of Communism

"I think this is a splendid example of what type of propaganda Communists like to inject into the motion pictures."

Somewhat bemused by a Communist account of how a still very much alive actor was assassinated on Broadway, the house un-American activities committee planned to end its first week of hearings with testimony from movie cartoonist Walt Disney. The day's supporting cast also includes Mrs. Rogers, Oliver Carlson, and Roy Brewer.

All are listed as "committee witnesses" as distinguished from a group of so-called "hostile witnesses" on tap for next week.

Mrs. Rogers is the mother of actress Ginger Rogers and has been in Hollywood many years. Robert E. Stripling, Communist investigator, said she would relate how Communists have slipped their propaganda into the movies and would "name names and pictures."

Also symbolizing the city's respect for all dead of World War II, the flag in front of the Marion county honor roll at the courthouse, which bears the names of all those in the county who served in World War II and those who died for their country, was flown at half staff. A wreath was also placed by the city in front of the honor roll.

HERBERT AIDE ENTERS GALION STRIKE CASE

Governor Sends Assistant To Check on Violence.

Special to The Star

GALION, O., Oct. 24—Robert Jones, executive assistant to Governor Herbert, was scheduled to come to Galion today to discuss with Mayor William Amann, officials of North Electric Co. and union representatives recent violence at the company's plant.

In Columbus the governor said Jones would be here for today only, the United Press reported. The governor also said he had not met with any minister groups from Galion.

In the meantime both the union and company officials continue to observe the eleventh hour truce in the nine-week-old strike marked by a 12 hour siege of the Galion plant and vandalism at the Kenton plant within the last two days.

The company and union have agreed to meet at 11 a. m. Monday in City Hall at the request of Col. Richard V. Graham of the Ohio National Guard, sent by Governor Herbert to attempt to bring an end to the potentially serious situation at the plant Wednesday night.

The agreement reached between the two parties under the truce provided that the company shut down the plant until after Monday's meeting and the union remove pickets from the plant permitting some 375 employes afraid of mob violence to leave after being in the plant nine hours after the 4:30 quitting time Wednesday.

The three Marion men arrested by the state patrol and lodged in Galion city jail were released today on $300 bond each on charges of driving an automobile without owner's consent. They are to appear in court here at 2 p. m. Monday.

The charges grew out of the seizure of two company employes from whom a company owned

Truman and Stalin Meet and Potsdam Conference Starts

This is a serialization of James F. Byrnes' "Speaking Frankly" with the consent of the book publishers. Vol. 21, 1947, by Harper & Brothers. Copyright, 1947, by James F. Byrnes Foundation (A Charitable Trust).

By JAMES F. BYRNES

WHEN we arrived at the "Little White House" in Babelsberg, the Berlin suburb that had been the center of the German film industry, we learned that Marshal Stalin would be delayed a day. This gave us a chance to do a little sightseeing. The President, Admiral Leahy and I drove into Berlin. We were greatly impressed by the amount of people walking along the road. They were mostly grandparents and children. As a rule they carried their possessions on their backs. We did not know where they were going and it is doubtful that they did, but when we reached Berlin we were convinced they were headed in the wrong direction. Despite all we had read of the destruction there, the extent of the devastation stunned us. It brought home the suffering that total war now visits upon old folks, women and children, besides the men in uniform.

Shortly after his arrival, on July 17, 1945, Stalin came to call on the President. We had to remember here to call Mr. Generalissimo rather than Marshal Stalin, for he had been accorded the new title in recognition of the Red army's great successes. It was the first time the President and Stalin had met. After a very pleasant conversation, the President quite informally asked Stalin, Molotov and Pavlov, the capable Soviet Interpreter, to stay and have lunch with him. They accepted. The conversation was general in nature and cordial in spirit. The President was favorably impressed by Stalin, as I had been at Yalta. In speaking of our visit to Berlin, I asked the generalissimo his views of how Hitler had died. To my surprise, he said he believed that Hitler was alive and that it was possible he was then either in Spain or Argentina. Some 18 days later I asked him if he had changed his views and he said he had not.

Wants To See Label

As lunch the generalissimo was as entertaining as he usually is on such occasions. He complimented the President on the wine that was served. While the President was standing him, Stalin asked the Filipino waiter to remove the bottle from the table, because he wanted to see the label. I was glad he did; it was a California wine.

Shortly after lunch, we left for the first of our many farewells. We drove to Potsdam and to Cecilienhof Palace where the meetings were held. As always, when they are held, the Russians had made painstaking preparations. Cecilienhof Palace had been the country estate of the former Crown Prince Wilhelm and provided ample accommodations for the conference. It is a two-story, stone-and-stucco mansion beautifully situated on Griebnitz Lake. Its four wings form a square with a courtyard in the center, which the Red army had brilliantly camouflaged with a 24-foot wide red star of camouflage. Each head of government was provided with a suite of rooms for his personal use and each delegation had a conference room and offices for its staff.

The conference room itself was impressively large and pleasantly cool. At the end a huge window reached up the full two-story height of the room, letting in light and giving the conferees a stirring view of beautifully landscaped gardens.

At Conference Table

The group first sat down at the large green table at 5:15 p. m. on July 17. Included, besides the President and me, former ambassador Joseph E. Davies, Admiral Leahy and Chip Bohlen from the United States delegation; Prime Minister Churchill, Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, Mr. Attlee, Sir Alexander Cadogan, and an interpreter from the United Kingdom delegation; and from the Soviet Union, Generalissimo Stalin, Foreign Minister Molotov, Mr. Vyshinsky, Mr. Andrei A. Gromyko, who was then the Soviet ambassador in the United States, the Soviet ambassador to Great Britain, F. T. Gousev, and Mr. Pavlov.

It was fortunate that the room was large because each of these delegations had grouped behind them other members of their delegations. This group would change as various issues before the conference called for the aid of different technical advisers. As I recall it, our delegation that opening day included Ambassador Averell Harriman, Under Secretary William L. Clayton, Reparations Commissioner Edwin W. Pauley, Counselor Ben Cohen, Assistant Secretary of State James C. Dunn and Dr. Matthews.

Truman Made Chairman

At Stalin's suggestion, President Truman was made chairman and he immediately presented for consideration some of the proposals we had prepared ahead in Washington. It was evident that the other heads of government appreciated the President's efforts in having proposals ready for discussion.

Ben Cohen and I prepared the plan for the creation of the council of foreign ministers. When I presented it to President Truman for his consideration, we suspected what later we found to be true: the Soviet Union did not wish to act promptly on a German treaty. We knew that because of the many serious problems presented, and because there was no German government, some delay was inevitable. But we thought a start should be made promptly and that our experience with the Italian and Balkan treaties would make it easier for us to agree on Germany's problems.

I visualized for him the council's operation in three terms. The council would consider first the treaties with Italy and the Balkan enemy states because these were the least controversial. The foreign ministers would agree on certain general principles and appoint deputies to draft treaties based on these principles. The foreign ministers, shortly thereafter, would take up the German treaty, agree on fundamental problems such as frontiers, and local governments, and then appoint different deputies to begin drafting a German settlement. The peace treaties based on these general agreements would then be presented to all the United Nations for their consideration and amendment in the same way the Dumbarton Oaks proposals were reviewed at the San Francisco Conference. A similar course ultimately would be followed for Japan.

President Approves Program

After consideration, the President approved the plan. This was shortly before I became secretary of state. The President submitted our memorandum to the state department for comment. The department officials had been thinking along similar lines and recommended the procedure.

It was a good theory. But it was fatally in one assumption. I had assumed that at the end of hostilities an armed peace would be so deeply desired by those nations that had fought the war in unity that the inevitable differences of opinion could be resolved without serious difficulty.

It is true that following Yalta we had been somewhat disillusioned. Such things as the Bern incident and the Soviet violation of the agreements on Poland and Rumania warned us that in the days to come we would encounter serious differences and would have to overcome deep-seated suspicion. However, fresh in our minds were the words of President Roosevelt's last message to Prime Minister Churchill, based upon his experience with the Russians, that such difficulties would straighten out.

Today it is easy for one to say that President Roosevelt's advice and our assumption were not warranted. It is a trite but true statement that "hindsight is better than foresight." But, if one can recall the attitude of the people of the United States toward the Soviets in the days immediately following the German surrender, he will agree that, as a result of our sufferings and sacrifices in a common cause, the Soviet Union then had in the United States a deposit of good will as great if not greater than that of any other country. It is little short of a tragedy that Russia should have withdrawn that deposit with the replacement and the loss of appreciation shown during the last two and a half years. Our assumption that we could cooperate and our patience in trying to cooperate justify the statement we have made here.

The arguments at Potsdam were sometimes bitter and Stalin made it clear once he "disliked the tactics of Mr. Byrnes," although at the end of the conference he pointed "Mr. Byrnes who has worked harder perhaps than any of us." The Yalta Declaration on Liberated Europe, on which the Allied leaders had agreed in February, 1945, was proving difficult to translate into agreed policy in July. In the next installment of "Speaking Frankly," which will be published tomorrow, Mr. Byrnes outlines the discussions at Potsdam of eastern Europe and its future.

Rail Head Urges Drive Against Reds in U.S.

By The United Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 24—E. L. Woodward, president of the Erie railroad, said yesterday the most effective aid America can render to Europe is "to drive communism out of this country."

Speaking before the opening session of the 30th annual convention of the Direct Mail Advertising association, he urged American business men "to use every means at their command to implant truth and knowledge about our system of doing business."

"If we do not drive communism out of this country, it will do us no good to help in the economic rehabilitation of Europe," Woodward told the 1,000 assembled advertising executives.

We've Come a Long Way from the Longhorns

Longhorns by the millions ranging the western grasslands from the Gulf Coast to Montana . . . building empires . . . making history and legend on the great cattle trails! That was sixty and more years ago. Then the railroads came, much of the range was fenced and the fate of the longhorn was sealed. Shorthorn, Angus and Hereford bulls came in from the east. Gradually, the longhorns were bred out of existence, until today only a few isolated "museum" herds are left.

This is one story of continuing livestock progress, of better animals developed to meet changing conditions and needs. Who knows but that in another fifty years today's "best" may look as old fashioned as longhorns do now.

With hogs, one amazing change is in the increased speed and efficiency of producing pork. Three years once was needed to raise a hog to market weight. Today, pigs often weigh 200 to 250 pounds at six months or less. Straight line and cross-bred breeding experiments seek even more efficient hogs to make weight in the same short time, but produce more meat.

In lambs, development is directed toward "dual-purpose" breeds. Certain breeds have been best for wool but not best for meat. Others produced the meat but were lacking in wool. Researchers have made progress on breeds of lambs to produce both meat and good wool economically.

A first step in the improvement of any animals or any herd is to use proven sires on dams of known productive ability. The eye alone is not enough. To know production records and ancestry is vital. Bull grading programs offer greater certainty in choosing a sire. Weighing young animals at weaning time and marking them is important, especially in the selection of gilts. A "touch system" of sheep grading is proving helpful in culling large bands in little time.

On any matter pertaining to livestock breeds or breeding, Swift & Company has no favorites. We serve the interests of producers of all breeds, in all parts of the country. We urge you to watch carefully your farm publications, and the bulletins of your state agricultural station, and the accomplishments of successful breeders for latest news about the kinds of livestock which you raise.

Track Down the Facts

These are the tracks of the coyote. They look like dog tracks, but there are differences which the expert tracker can see.

In the livestock business, too, sometimes things are not as they seem to be. For example, some people say we waste our grain by feeding it to animals. Instead, they think we should eat the grain ourselves. They do not realize that the millions of head of cattle and lambs that are marketed every year are little more than grass turned into meat. It is true that many of these animals are fed a certain amount of grain and other concentrates to turn them into finished meat animals. However, if it were not for cattle and lambs, 779,000,000 acres of land in the United States would produce little, if any, food for humans. To put it another way, about 51% of the total land of our nation consists of grazing land which cannot be used for producing other feeds and food.

Martha Logan's Recipe for

UPSIDE DOWN CHILI PIE

(Yields 6 servings)

|---|---|
| 1 pound ground beef | ¼ teaspoon chili powder |
| ½ cup chopped onion | ½ teaspoon salt |
| 1 tablespoon shortening | 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce |
| 1 cup cooked kidney beans | 1 cup cooked tomatoes |

Sauté meat and onion in melted shortening. Add beans, seasonings, and tomatoes. Cover. Simmer gently about 15 minutes. Pour into a greased 9-inch pie plate. Top with corn bread batter. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 20 minutes.

Corn bread

|---|---|
| ½ cup sifted flour | 1 tablespoon sugar |
| ¾ cup yellow corn meal | 1 beaten egg |
| 2 teaspoons baking powder | ½ cup milk |
| 1 teaspoon salt | 2 tablespoons melted shortening |

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine egg and milk. Add to flour mixture, stirring until well mixed. Stir in shortening. Pour over chili in pie plate.

Packers do not make livestock prices

In their day, the hardy, self-sufficient longhorns were the best breed for the open, unfenced ranges. In a land without transportation they actually took themselves to market. But the tough longhorns couldn't match newer breeds in beef production.

Calves from Hereford, Shorthorn and Angus bulls and from thrifty longhorn dams grew faster. They produced more and better meat from less feed. Blockier and of heavier frame, they yielded more of the more popular meat cuts. They were better money makers for farmers and ranchers. Such results encouraged selection of better foundation stock.

Each improvement in meat production has been met by increased demand for popular cuts on America's dinner tables. Livestock producers and meat packers have worked hand-in-hand to encourage greater demand for meat. But Swift & Company plays no favorites among breeds of beef producing animals. We do not make markets . . . we find them. In our buying of livestock we transmit to producers the knowledge of the kinds of meat that are preferred in various sections of the country.

The price producers receive for their livestock is governed by what the packer can get for the meat and by-products.

Will It Pay Me to Specialize?

M. T. Buchanan

by M. T. Buchanan
State College of Washington

"Should I specialize in some crop or enterprise, or should I diversify my operations?" Many farmers and ranchers have to find the answer to this question. For instance, in the state of Washington there are 63 distinct types of farming in this one state alone. And they should consider that the types of products which come from farms in different areas of the United States are not accidental. They are caused by the inter-action of physical and economic factors. The operation of these two forces has been hastened by mechanization, development of better crop varieties, breeds and disease-resistant strains.

Specialization, of course, leads to increased efficiency in the use of labor, equipment, capital and buildings.

Marketing is an easier task and more time is available for maintenance of equipment and for planning new and better methods. A great deal of the increase in production of agricultural products has resulted from specialization. Farms have increased in size. Proportionately, the amount of labor needed has decreased, allowing more labor for use in other ways.

Specialize or diversify? There's plenty of "real life" evidence to help you in reaching a decision. Go visiting. See how your neighbor does it. It's your problem and even if you decide to make no changes from your present plan, you'll get a lot of ideas on how you can do your work better.

Ah Yes, Those Writers

[illegible]

Warmed-Over War

WE ARE continuing to refight World War II by hindsight. Next to Leaving out on Monday who was to blame for the football team's loss on Saturday, it is the easiest thing in the world to do, and about as futile.

The latest to enter the lists at a Monday morning quarterback in military matters is Louis A. Johnson, former assistant secretary of war, who says his efforts to arm the country were blocked by two former Roosevelt cabinet members, Frances Perkins and Henry H. Woodring. Mr. Johnson's allegations are just as divorced as the indignant denials they will evoke from Miss Perkins and Mr. Woodring.

The Roosevelt era and the war promise to be the most fruitful producers of disputable statements since the days of Lincoln and the Civil war. Lincoln continues to be a controversial figure, while the responsible lives of Longstreet, Fitz-John Porter and other high commanders of the Civil war times now are brought forth for an occasional airing.

The decisions taken just before and during World War II were dictated by circumstances. Those charged might to more in authority at the time. Some of them proved wrong. Juggling the onus of blame and treason it around like a hot potato at the late date serves no purpose.

Hurry, Boys

IT'S a dull day when one or both of these stories can't be found in your favorite newspaper:

1. Politicians take steps to relieve housing shortage.

2. Unions blamed for high cost of construction.

There's another story that doesn't get told nearly so often because it's less widespread—less obvious. It goes like this:

People weary of waiting for millennium tackle housing problem themselves; building boomlet in sight.

There are many reasons why houses are being built despite all obstacles, and none of them has anything to do with the fumbling attempts of politicians to handle a matter that so far has been too big for them. They stem from the natural desires and reactions of people—a range of reasons covering everything from resentment against unreasonably high rent to the desire to have a place of one's own—still the ultimate goal of most Americans.

The Mr. Fixits of politics will have to hurry, or one of these years when they get braced to help the poor voters with another housing plan the poor voters will have helped themselves through their own collective initiative.

Dutch Uncle Needed

ON INSTRUCTIONS from the UN security council, six foreign consuls stationed at Batavia have made a report on the Indonesian situation. They say fighting continues and place responsibility on the Dutch for interpreting the council's Aug. 1 cease-fire order in such a way that "mopping-up" operations continue 10 weeks later.

The Dutch protest they have been observing that the order is mere subterfuge. The time is at hand when the Dutch must realize that colonial empires no longer can be subdued and held in check by cannon. They need a Dutch uncle to give them a straight-from-the-shoulder talk on the facts of life, 1947 style.

It is estimated that Russia has more than 200 million people.

Hollywood and the Investigation

EVERYTHING has everybody [illegible] to be investigated in this country except the Communists and the purpose of which has been to set them up as indestructible and invulnerable. These outcries and [illegible] against the committee on [illegible] activities [illegible] are so silly that [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] as Dorothy Thompson, Tom Paine and even Bernard Levin [illegible] their reason. This is, after all, one of the few times in history that writers who support the crowd with something to eat not need a censor to tell them what they are duty-bound with a quick eye on the list of what is [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible].

There will be, of course, the usual confusion as it dawns on the protagonists that the financial talent dominating Hollywood does not [illegible] are important. Writers write with ideas. Ideas are startling things to people who rarely have any of their own. Unfortunately, such people are prone to call any new idea communism, whether it is or not. For instance Charles Dickens was a "Communist" in his day and only ostracized, so dodge, by the un-English private [illegible] committee. Anyway, it is [illegible] that Hollywood finally has discovered that the man with the idea is possibly more important than the male beauty who [illegible] and looks all [illegible].

Three Pittsburgh women have been [illegible] for using "common words."

Ladies Home Journal. Please copy.

How refreshing in this [illegible] world to come across a reminder that, in one state at any rate, bigotry is still a misdemeanor.

Pennsylvania must be a paradise for prospective husbands. Imagine, when things get too rough, being able to call in the law and swear out a warrant for the little woman.

Of course, the female of the species is going to have the last word, all right. But she might choose a milder one if she realized there was a possibility that it would have to be uttered in jail.

Incidentally, in view of Pennsylvania's newly revealed statute against common scolds, maybe Comrade Vishinsky had better go home another way.

Hollywood and the Investigation

[illegible] The Thomas committee [illegible] to find out a way to many [illegible] subjects contain [illegible] of Communist propaganda. This is very difficult to establish either by the actual picture or the [illegible].

I must say a curious experience about that. I was listening to one of my favorite programs on the radio, over the more conservative network, sponsored by probably the most explosive of American business groups and [illegible] by an advertising firm whose head has fought Communism [illegible] and hard. Yet the script was straight Communist propaganda of [illegible] by the Communists. I sent for the script and understand the lady [illegible] and agreed that [illegible] it was done. That happens all the time.

In an interesting decision, Judge Fuld, of the court of appeals of the state of New York, declared it libelous to call any person a Communist. As very few Communists are probably members of the party, which is an international conspiracy for world revolution in the interest of Soviet Russia, many persons can serve that party, perform its tasks, damage the United States, corrupt our children, debase their minds, pervert our textbooks, radio scripts and movies, promote, and yet be Republicans, Democrats, and even at church members. They change their names as they change their form and hide their purpose under the protection of the law which is designed to safeguard persons from the excesses of police power.

Everyone's Weapon

The public has, of course, recourse. I personally purchase no goods manufactured behind the iron curtain. I go to no movies in which known Communists are stars or which are written by Communists. I buy no products advertised on the radio whose manufacturers sponsor what I accept as Communist-inspired programs. That is my privilege and choice. Nobody can force me to pay for what I do not wish to purchase. I can fight Communism with my consumer's dollar.

French Election Results

By Mark Sullivan

WASHINGTON

BENEATH the eager interpretation in this country of the French election last week lies recognition of the division of the world into two, with United States heading one, Soviet Russia the other. But for the bearing of the French election on that, the American people would have taken no more interest in it than decades ago, when they hardly knew the names of French political parties and knew little more about French political leaders than that their names were difficult to pronounce.

It may seem farfetched to suggest that today a French election has for America somewhat the interest on one in Maine, important as showing a trend which concerns us. As in Maine, leaders on both sides have always been conscious of the nationwide bearing of their elections, with each striving to make the effect it desired, so in France were both sides aware of the effect on the world, especially the United States. The same was true of the election in Italy a week before. In both countries, leaders on both sides strove to impress America, and did so for the effect on the world conflict between America and Russia.

DeGaulle's Views Clear

In France the anti-Communist leader, General Charles de Gaulle, during his campaign, urging his followers to effort said, "The United States has marshalled its power to counteract Soviet ambitions, and there is not a free man in the world who does not welcome this American decision." And against the Communists, General de Gaulle charged that they were "always striving to serve the interests of the Soviet dictatorship." In the Italian election, the Communists said the same thing in reverse, calling the anti-Communists "Judases," who had sold out for American dollars. Odd figure of speech for a Communist.

Communist world heads saw the issue the same. Their overall strategy is to make Europe decide whether to be pro-Russian or pro-United States, and they counted on the French election to be anti-United States. Some weeks preceding, the Communist world heads, in a meeting at Belgrade, had set up the "International Communist Bureau." After announcement of this, a Communist leader said that America should get out of Europe, and "perhaps she will if she gets a sharp slap on the wrist, and perhaps she will get just that in the French elections."

Result Interpreted

Washington interpretation of the French election stresses the most [illegible] aspect, that the anti-Communist movement led by de Gaulle received more votes than any other political group. Interpretation that goes a little deeper stresses a more far-reaching effect, not only of the anti-Communist victory in France but also of the one in Italy, where the anti-Communist vote was almost doubled.

The deeper meaning has to do with the setting up of the Communist International Bureau. In the Belgrade meeting at which this was done, Communist leaders in both France and Italy were present. This open identity with Russian Communism, coupled with the Communist defeats in France and Italy, will make it almost impossible for any government in either country to allow Communists in the cabinet. Communists would thus have no official standing.

There is an even more far-reaching interpretation, and one that is ominous. Well-informed observers in Washington think it likely that Communists will not make further attempts to win elections in European countries. They think that the setting up of the International Communist Bureau means that the Communists are not going to even pretend to work by means of elections and democratic processes. Such a decision would be natural, for never in any country have the Communists achieved power by use of the ballot in a democratic election.

May Get Rougher

But abandonment by the Communist heads or reliance upon democratically-held elections would be ominous for France and Italy. These and other countries may reasonably apprehend that the next round o fa Communist drive may take the form of strikes to cripple industry and the other familiar Communist techniques of conspiracy and secret fifth columns. To France and Italy, a new and intensified round of crippling strikes would be an immediate and serious detriment.

Daily Bible Thought

There is nothing more beautiful than a life long devoted friendship. But you must be able to respect a person or you will surely cease to admire and love him: "The soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul." —I Samuel 18 1.

Undesired Stardom

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Oct. 24, 1937.

Marion police uncovered a cache of $1,625 in counterfeit bills and arrested a 34-year-old Brooklyn, N. Y., man in a local restaurant.

A family dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Dennis of Scioto street was a reunion of the couple's fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. James Bender of Delaware street and Mr. and Mrs. James E. Parker of Morral.

Five appearances of Dr. John H. McComber of Detroit marked the opening of a one-month revival service at Epworth M. E. church. The services were the first in the newly-redecorated church.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Debolt of Galion entertained with a dinner complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Delmar L. Redding of Marion, on the occasion of their sixth wedding anniversary. The event also marked the fourth wedding anniversary of the hosts.

Miss Dorothy Marjorie Bemiller and B. Franklin Gerlen were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Bemiller south of Marion.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Oct. 24, 1927.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had arrived in New York City after a 26,000 mile air tour under all kinds of weather conditions and began work on a report of his observations which were expected to embody his personal recommendations for advancement of America's air development.

Members of the Delphian club held a Halloween party at the home of Mrs. E. M. Sager of Windsor street.

Railway mail clerks and their wives gave a dinner in the presidential suite at Hotel Harding honoring William Collins of Washington, D. C., president of the National Railway Mail Clerks association.

Winter wheat seed was practically all in the ground, according to a report made by Roland L. Leeper, service director of the Marion County Farm Bureau.

The proposed $200,000 bond issue for enlargement of Marion's sewer system, which was to be brought before the voters at the November election, was discussed by R. E. Prettyman, chairman of the city council's finance committee, at a meeting of the Smart Sunday school class of Epworth M. E. church.

The Innocents Abroad

By Joseph Alsop

TERISTE

THE wanderers are going home already. Across a gap of no [illegible] are expected only one more professional wisecrack. As Rome, after a long summer of [illegible] waits for lawmakers at air fields, rounds of official appointments and indoctrination lectures, the embassy was visibly better off to receive. Here in Orleans at the moment, Representative John Lodge was the last Lucerne specimen of this new kind of annual migration, which has filled all Europe with the bustle of its movement as the passenger pigeons once filled flatness with the sound of their wings.

The results cannot be gauged by the guarded public statements of the returning senators and representatives, although it was encouraging to discover from the Greek press that Representative John Taber had learned all about Stalin. (The next thing you know, someone will tell him about the birds, bees and flowers.) As a guess, in fact, the test of the special session will show that the results of the congressional mass migration to Europe have been better than the public statements would indicate.

Want To Learn

The process of collision between members of our congress and the grim facts of our time has been, to be serious about it, extremely reassuring to watch. The gooseflesh-raising horrors of the congressional junkers of the past have not once recurred, although more than 200 members, many of them not averse to pleasure and the bottle, have been loose in Europe this summer. Without exception, the senators and representatives have shown a new sobriety in both senses of the word, and above all, a desire to learn everything that could be learned. Most of them went through schedules that would have flustered men and women not habituated to the grind of campaign trips.

The reactions were so standardized that they can be catalogued rather easily. The relatively small number of members who has already grasped the real nature of the American role in the world despite the distance of the world problem from our shores found in contact with the facts new strength and new reassurance. They will be pretty hard to intimidate or argue with when the special session convenes.

Far more significant, the large, decisive group of middle-of-the-road members were visibly and deeply affected. These were the men who had gone along part way, or had gone along reluctantly, with a compromise American foreign policy. They had feared the [illegible] consequences. They had often managed to delude themselves as to the meaning of the facts abroad. With the facts [illegible] out before their eyes, they found self-delusion impossible. With evident reluctance, yet surely and rather promptly, they moved over to transform the majority of active internationalists into an effective majority.

Equally meaningful, however, was the reaction of the confirmed isolationists. Only one or two of them were open to reason or conversion. They continued to repeat their familiar slogans. Yet they [illegible] not wholly brush the facts aside. And four these men have done everything in their power to obstruct measures to prevent war, were suddenly heard saying all over Europe, that "We might as well have another war and get it over with."

Sign of Conversion

Nothing could better illuminate the degree of willful blindness, of sheer inability to think, when characterizes their position. You would suppose that any sensible man would prefer to spend a few billions on a stable peace, rather than take complacently about another war which will certainly cost hundreds of billions and may, quite probably, result in the collapse of Western civilization. Yet the beginning of the conversion of these men into a preventive war party was quite evident.

On the unfavorable side, one more item of evidence must also be mentioned. As the homecoming statement of Representative Carsman A. Herter plainly discloses, even the best-intentioned members of congress have adopted a sort of political double standard. Under the Victorian double standard, all women were required to be as pure as the driven snow, while the male sex was permitted to frequent saloons and even burlesque shows. Under the new double standard, all European politicians must be willing, at the drop of a hat, to subject their people to the most Draconian measure, while American politicians continue to behave like American politicians. This is silly and dangerous.

None the less, the experiment seems to have proved itself. No doubt it will be repeated again next year. It is to be hoped that it will. But next year, it might be well for ambassadors to be relieved of the task of meeting members of congress at the plane, which must this summer have taken a third of the time of every American chief of mission in Europe. This is going too far even in the education of congressmen.

POWELL, Wyo.—A partial skeleton of a pachyaena, described as a carniverous animal approximating the size of a great dane dog, was the prize find by Princeton university paleontologists during three months' search in the McCollough peak region.

Dr. Glen Jepsen, Princeton curator of paleontology, said the animal roamed the region millions of years ago. He termed the specimen extremely rare.

The group plans to return next year for a more intensive search of the district. Members include Robert V. Witter of Princeton, Merle Harris, professor of physics and general geology at the University of Minnesota, and Paul Shoup, New York City.

Tax Duplication

By Charles Molony

There's a Slight Chance of Cutting Overlapping Levies.

Washington observers of a stubborn [illegible] taxation by federal and state governments look forward to [illegible] years—but no promising of that.

In [illegible] $39,000,000,000 in federal, $11,000,000,000 in state collections in fiscal [illegible] more than 90 per cent came from taxes [illegible] at rates levied on the same things.

The chief levies were income, death, liquor, tobacco, gasoline, admissions and a [illegible] [illegible] taxes.

Reasons why chances for relief from such [illegible] are brighter than usual include [illegible] General revision of the federal tax [illegible] for the first time in a considerable period [illegible] be undertaken by congress at its next regular [illegible]. The administration has encouraged [illegible].

A number of senators and representatives who attended a recent Chicago conference [illegible] conferees agreed something should be [illegible] and that the federal government should take a first step by giving up certain tax fields [illegible] states.

Revenue Needed

But that last suggestion points up why [illegible] is not too promising: both the federal and state governments require a lot of revenue to pay for their operations, and each is apt to favor having the other fellow pull out [illegible].

A treasury department tax analysis of [illegible] suggested guardedly that the federal government might well pull out of the [illegible] field—"in exchange for state withdrawal from another field." It hinted at state withdrawal from tobacco taxation.

Conflicts Limited

On the other hand, it said, conflicts between federal and state income taxes are "not as great as appears at first sight" and that [illegible] taxpayer might as well assume they'll have to keep on paying both.

Latest available figures on collections are for the fiscal year 1946, the 12 months ending June 30, 1946.

During that period, the treasury department says, 41.9 per cent ($18,705,000,000) of federal and 16.9 per cent ($396,000,000) of state collections were from income taxes. Neither is apt to give up such an important source of revenue. The treasury analysis said an integrated tax program might smooth out some conflicts, but:

Here are some further treasury views on overlapping taxes:

1. Tobacco—33 states tax it. It's the [illegible] best producer of state revenue, yielding $[illegible] [illegible]. It accounts for only 2.9 per cent of federal collections—but that's $1,165,000,000.

It's naturally easier for the federal government to administer tobacco tax. It collects from the relatively few manufacturers. States have to collect from wholesalers, retailers, and consumers.

Differentials Cited

2. Gasoline—The states got $800,000,000 [illegible] 18 per cent of total revenue, from this. Federal gasoline collections, though amounting to $[illegible] 000,000 were less than one per cent of all federal revenue.

The report said it might be well for the government to quit taxing gasoline—limiting spending on highways proportionately.

3. Liquor taxes—During fiscal 1946 the federal government got $2,526,000,000, or 6 per cent of all revenue. The states got $466,000,000, about 10 per cent from this source.

One suggestion is that the states quit this [illegible] under arrangement that the federal government, which collects its tax from the distilleries' warehouse, increase its levy and distribute the extra revenue among the states.

4. Amusement taxes—The federal government got $415,000,000 from taxes on admissions in fiscal 1946. The states got $120,000,000, counting collections from admissions under general sales taxes.

Other Fields

5. State sales taxes and federal manufacturers' and retailers' excises—27 states now impose sales taxes duplicating specific federal excises on communications, transportation, luxury and other goods and services. But duplication is "of secondary importance."

6. Inheritance estate and gift taxes—[illegible] than two per cent ($677,000,000) of federal [illegible], than three per cent ($143,000,000) of [illegible] collections come from this source. There's no problem of overlapping among the states as such, as between the states and the federal government.

Pale Hand You Love

By Truman Twill

See your dentist twice a year. Any other would be too much for a male customer. He gets self-conscious while licking the good-looking dental assistant's fingers. Good-looking fingers, too. Yummm. Soap.

No biting now, Porcelain Boy, or they'll be paying that set of burglar tools old doctor left lying in there out of the roof of what could be a pretty badly cut-up mouth. Just lie there, the flat of your back and try to think fascinating thoughts....

Nothing about friendly pups jumping up to lick people's hands with their absurdly long tongues, their little tails wagging behind them, their friendly little eyes shining with the sheer faith of man's best friend....

Nothing about what it must be like to be a dental assistant and be called in to ram a couple of indispensable fingers into the drooling mouths of monsters whose idea of fun might be to bite off a whole hand and eat it like a sirloin steak.

Nothing about a dental assistant's sensory receptions in the fingertips or the possibility that her sense of humor might get out of control and send her giggling out of the room, hysterical girlish....

Nothing about cats washing themselves with long, rough tongues, tidying up everything, making it shine like an adolescent boy scrubbed within an inch of his life for his first date.

Nothing about the probability that a dental assistant obliged to hold wads of cotton in place and expected to grab a patient by the mouth without flinching learns to read character from whether or not the patient can keep his tongue from returning to the scene of the first embarrassing lick....

Nothing about the slobber pump that seems to be having a struggle to keep abreast of an abnormal flow and a mechanical failure which will bring about a small-scale replica of Bridal Veil Falls in Yosemite National Park....

Nothing about old doctor's long absence from the room and maybe the guy has drilled a hole in his head and never will be back and that's the way the authorities will find the body when they break down the door—the patient, the dental assistant with her pale hand he loves still in his trap and old doctor, with a hole in his head, the drill still whirring....

Faraway thoughts, please. Here comes the doctor now. "That will be all Miss Lady-finger," he says. Or does he? The whole thing is a mystery.

In Plain Words by James Marlow

WASHINGTON — PRESIDENT TRUMAN has told Congress it must come into special session Nov. 17 because

He wants something done to the runaway rise in prices

He wants something done to Europe get through the winters with American relief.

At it all amounts to is this:

A special session will save six weeks in getting things

There are two problems facing Congress on European relief:

Help, with food and fuel to France and Italy over these next winter months when the break.

Help—through the so-called Marshall plan—to help them help themselves over the next four or five years. This will take billions of dollars

The special session will concentrate on the latter problem, or temporary, help for Europe, plus the matter of high prices at home.

James Marlow

Congress won't have a record to defend during the long-range Marshall plan debate until some time next year

Therefore, the special session can only be a means of speeding up the stop-gap, temporary aid to Europe.

What kind of control will President Truman propose when he gets down to the point of suggesting ways to put a halt to rising prices; that remains to be seen.

BUT THE FOLLOWING figures tell some of the story of rising prices:

Between August, 1939, just before the outbreak of the European war, and December, 1941, when we entered the war, living costs in this country rose 12.1 per cent.

By August, 1945, when Japan and Germany had quit, living costs had risen 31.1 per cent over August, 1939.

Then by June, 1946, living costs had risen 35.2 per cent. OPA still was in the saddle then.

In July, 1946, congress passed a law to continue OPA in a way which President Truman didn't like—and OPA lapsed temporarily. It was revived but died in the succeeding months as one control after another was lifted.

According to the last official government figures living costs since August, 1939, rose 60.6 per cent up to July, 1947.

But the government's bureau of labor statistics has preliminary figures which show that by August, 1947, living costs had risen 62 per cent over August, 1939.

BUT WHAT DOES THAT 62 per cent rise in living costs mean in the life of an average factory worker? Only this:

The average increase in the gross weekly earnings of a factory worker, from August, 1939 to August, 1947, rose from $23.77 to $49.21. This means his earnings, without deductions for taxes or increased living costs, rose 107 per cent while living costs were rising 62 per cent.

But — making deductions for the increase in income taxes, for social security taxes and for the rise in living costs—the weekly average wage of a single factory worker rose from $23.69 in August, 1939, to $26.17 in August, 1947.

That meant a rise of 10 per cent in actual pay for the average factory worker since August, 1939, over and above the increase in living costs.

But these figures are for factory workers only.

It is a different story with the people on fixed incomes — like city employes, such as policemen and school teachers, and people on pensions.

The income of these people has fallen far below the wage gains won by factory workers to keep pace with rising living costs.

Roving Reports by Hal Boyle

NEW YORK — THIS happened in a city whose welfare department has asked for a budget of $224,000,000 for next year:

A big well-dressed man walked into one of those Sixth avenue cafeterias where characters who never saw a racehorse spend hours poring over racing forms. It was just after 4 a. m. the bars were closed and the place was crowded.

The big man wanted a snack to fortify him against the subway ride home. He took a tray to the counter and for 45 cents bought two fried eggs and a one-sided piece of ham — it's cut too thin to have two sides. He also ordered two glasses of milk.

Hal Boyle

He carried his tray to a table at which two people were already sitting—a red-haired man of middle age and a slight, bent woman of about 65. He sat down. At first he thought the other two were together, but soon he saw he was wrong.

THE RED-HEADED MAN was eating, but the old woman had no plate before her. She wore a black dress of good material, but it verged on the shabby. A piece of adhesive tape on the bridge of her nose, worn sore by her glasses, had slipped from its mooring and gave a slightly rakish note to her air of faded gentility.

The woman watched with strange attentiveness the plate from which the red-haired man was eating. He finished, got up and left.

The old woman remained in her seat. The big man looked across the table and saw she was nervously fingering two nickels She stared at the nickels and then glanced up at the signs over the cafeteria counter: coffee and muffins—15 cents; chopped steak and potatoes— 65 cents, hot cakes and sausage—but nothing for two nickels

THE BIG MAN stopped eating Moved by a sudden impulse, he gestured with his hand and pushed one of his glasses of milk toward the center of the table.

The old woman glanced furtively around as if fearful that a cafeteria attendant might see her, then took up the glass and drained the milk in quick steady gulps Her withered lips formed a soundless word—"thanks"—and she lowered her eyes and again began fumbling with the two nickels

Her thought seemed far away Four men drinking coffee at the next table began arguing over which horse would take the third race at Jamaica.

The big man looked down at his plate He had taken only a bite of the ham and a corner off one egg For some reason he felt ashamed to see the food before him.

HE GOT TO HIS feet, pushed his plate to the center of the table, nodded good night to the old woman's half-averted face, and walked out.

Turning, he looked back through the plate glass window The woman, using his discarded knife and fork, was cleaning up the partly-eaten food on his plate She drank the milk left in his second glass

The big man passed another lighted cafeteria, paused, then decided he was no longer hungry.

"Does she really have to?" he thought "I wonder does she really have to?"

For in the city of many rackets there are people who even make a racket out of table scavenging And you can't be sure

"No, you never can be sure," thought the big man

Gas Tax Anti-Diversion Amendment Discussed

The second meeting of the Marion county committee on the anti-diversion gas tax amendment was held Wednesday in the common pleas courtroom

Chairman M E Baldwin presided. Present were township trustees, who attended in a body, county commissioners village officials, business representatives, and A J Loudenslager representing citizens

A round table discussion was held during which the need for additional funds for maintenance and reconstruction of roads, streets and bridges was clearly indicated It was pointed out that the passage of this amenament would mean a considerable measure of relief of this need without an increase of taxes, and since the gasoline tax was originally passed for road maintenance, no other governmental functions would be seriously handicapped by the earmarking of this revenue.

Plans were made for the distribution of literature explaining the amenament through the county.

The next meeting will be Oct 29 also at the courtroom

ELECTION POSTERS GO OUT TOMORROW

Jaycees Launch Their "Get Out the Vote" Drive.

J. Millard Deal, chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce "Get Out the Vote" committee, said today that the Jaycees would start the distribution of posters tomorrow urging Marion citizens to vote in the Nov. 4 election.

Members of the committee and any other Jaycees who can help will pick up 600 posters at the Art-Craft Printing Co on North Main street and distribute them around Marion. A number of the committee will be at the printing company from 9 to 12 a. m. and from 1 to 3 p. m. to aid the dispersion.

On Oct. 28, the committee will sponsor a 15-minute radio program over WMRN at 6.30 p. m. on the veterans bonus bill up for vote in the election, and on Oct. 30 at 6 30 p. m. the proposed tax bill will be aired.

A tentative WMRN broadcast for Oct. 30 has been set by the committee for the purpose of discussing the proposed county auditorium bond issue.

On Nov 3, the committee will sponsor a veterans panel discussion to be aired over WMRN at a time to be announced later. Representatives from Marion's eight veterans organizations—Air Force Association, American Legion Bird-McGinnis and G I. posts, AMVETS, Disabled Veterans Marion County Legion Post, Navy Club, and Veterans of Foreign Wars—will participate in the discussion

TAFT

He apparently was satisfied that he would be the next White House occupant since he told newsmen early this year that he would not run unless he believed he would win.

Representative Brown declared that the senator would be strong enough to block other leading contenders for the nomination and force selection of a dark horse if he does not win it himself.

Taft's Platform

Senator Taft's platform as constructed from his public statements on national issues:

Prices—Cooperate with the administration's voluntary food saving program. Don't revive rationing and price control, but try to stabilize wages and prices 30 to 60 per cent above 1939 levels. Make more vigorous use of controls over exports Discourage wage increases to the extent that they result in price increases.

Taxes—Pass a new income tax reduction bill next year. (Taft has not said whether he favors passing a bill like those vetoed this year or whether he wants a different approach.)

Federal Budget—Aim for a peacetime budget of 1950 of $25,000,000,000 to $30,000,000,000) Earmark at least $2,000,000,000 a year for retirement of the national debt.

Labor—Raise the federal minimum wage from 40 cents an hour to "at least" 60 cents Consider amendments to the Taft-Hartley labor law if it is shown that provisions will not apply properly to particular industries or that sections are not working as intended.

Foreign Policy — Republicans should criticize past "errors" of the administration Those errors include being "too soft" with Russia, abandoning ideals of the Atlantic Charter and blocking German recovery until "we have won the war but lost the peace." Base American policy on maintaining peace unless American freedom is threatened; build it around the United Nations, with emphasis changed to develop a code of international law before the veto is surrendered. It should oppose Communism and encourage Germany to support itself, with controls to prevent rebuilding a war machine. Grant economic aid to stricken countries but limit loan for specific purposes and only to pay for goods shipped from the United States. (Taft has expressed hope that the present rate of economic aid, upwards of $4,000,000,000 a year, would taper off until it ended in about four years.)

Social Legislation—Federal government should give financial aid for programs administered by state and local governments. Provide aid only for persons unable to pay. Broaden coverage under the old age insurance program. Enact measures next year to provide federal aid for health, education and housing (including public housing) programs ultimately costing about $1,000,000,000 a year.

Armed Services—Reject universal military training. Give the nation the "most expert, best-trained and best-equipped armed forces in the world" backed by the "best" research and intelligence services. Explore all means for providing expert technical reserves without universal training.

"Bankrupt In Ideas"

Taft also charged the Democratic administration and party was "bankrupt in ideas and consistent theory" and accused it of grabbing power from the states until American liberties were endangered.

With the election a year away, Governor Dewey still appeared to be leading the Republican hopefuls with politicians speaking highly of Taft but aware of the New Yorker's nationally proven vote-getting ability.

The Taft camp recognized this talk, which could be damaging, with an article in the Taft paper at Cincinnati defending the senator's vote record. The paper pointed out that Taft "ignored his opponent" to lead the fight in 1944 against the CIO-PAC and carried Ohio.

A major point in any Taft campaign is the senator's wife, Martha, who toured the west with him. Her aggressive political style, compared with the conservative Taft, has made a hit with the voters since she started campaigning with Taft in 1938.

UNION LEADER DIES

CINCINNATI, Oct. 24—Thomas J. (Brocky) Farrell, 69, fifth vice president and general organizer of the Teamsters International union, AFL, died last night.

GALION MAN HURT TOUCHING LIVE WIRE

Knocked 15 Feet from Ladder by 440-Volt Shock.

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 24—Mateo Landa, 28, employed in the foundry at the Galion Iron Works and Manufacturing Co, was seriously injured last night when he accidentally touched a 440 volt electric line and was thrown from a 15-foot ladder to a cement floor. Although suffering from back injuries and a possible skull fracture, Landa remained conscious and was removed to the Galion City hospital for treatment and X-rays. The full extent of his injuries is not yet known.

Company employes said that Landa, a night employe had gone up the ladder to repair a pulley that had slipped its moorings from an overhead crane. He had slipped the pulley into place and was preparing to descend when some part of his body came in contact with one of two 440 volt lines that run overhead and power the crane.

Officials said that the crane does not run on the night shift and that the power is supposed to be turned off.

pickup truck was taken after the employes had been forced into an automobile and run out of town. The truck was later found abandoned west of Galion. The Marion men are Walter E. Foust, 29, Richard C. Gibson, 28 and James A. Wilson, 29, members of the Universal Cooler Co. UAW unit at Marion.

Closing of the Galion plant early yesterday leaves only one of the three North company plants still in production. The Kenton plant closed earlier in the week when a band of masked men at gun point broke into the plant and caused damage to machinery and equipment estimated by the company at from $20,000 to $50,000. The Mt. Gilead plant employing 250 normally is operating at approximately half strength.

Concerning the meeting here Monday, the company's attorney, Robert Jamison, contends that the session will be nothing more than the word implies, a meeting and that the company has not committed itself to arbitration of the dispute.

The company policy had been not to negotiate until all UAW officers had signed the non-Communist affidavit in conformance with the Taft-Hartley law Following the Kenton incident the company amended its policy to a flat refusal, which events here Wednesday obviously have done nothing to change.

The union has committed itself to a "no surrender" policy and the issue stands squarely joined.

Meanwhile, Galion businessmen were holding many meetings with ministers and law officials to secure law and order and prevent "armed mob invasions."

A. W. Clement, a company employe, said he was circulating petitions among engineers, draftsmen and technical workers, urging the company not to sign a contract.

Four out-of-town pickets were arrested during the 12-hour siege of the plant, but were later released as was a woman who had a pistol in her possession.

JURY FINDS DR. ROSS GUILTY; FACES CHAIR

By The Associated Press

LA GRANGE, Tex., Oct 24—A jury of 10 farmers and two craftsmen brushed aside the insanity plea of Dr. Lloyd I. Ross, San Antonio surgeon, and decreed death in the electric chair for the slayer of a family of four.

The jurors, 11 of whom are fathers, debated less than 15 minutes last night before convicting the Ohio-born, Harvard-educated surgeon of murder with malice in the shooting of Mrs. Gertrude York. Her husband, Willard York, San Antonio investment broker and formerly Ross' intimate friend; her 9-year-old son John, and York's mother were killed in the same hail of bullets on a rural road last May 25.

Mansfield Cab Driver Says He Was Kidnaped

By The Associated Press

ASHLAND, Ky., Oct. 24—City police said last night they were holding a man identified as Noah Howington, 26-year-old Mansfield, O., taxicab driver, for further questioning.

Police Chief Charles F. Howard, who questioned Howington, said the driver told him three persons entered his cab in Mansfield Thursday night and forced him to drive toward Ashland.

The driver was quoted by Howard as saying the men forced him to stop his cab on Daniel's Fork in Greenup county, Ky., and they then deflated the tires of his cab.

Howington told police the trio then left the scene, and he was picked up by a passing motorist and came to Ashland.

Chief Howard said the Mansfield driver was turned over to the state highway patrol after he came to the city police station about noon yesterday.

land. The 301-mile extension would serve Columbus, Marion, Mansfield, Ashland, Akron and Canton.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker president of Eastern, pointed out in his petition to the board for reconsideration that the importance of the cities involved has not been fully appraised by the CAB. He stated that his airline is "ideally qualified" to serve these cities because of a community of interest based on the interrelationship of the industrial area of the north with the raw materials and markets of the south, the travel to and from southern resorts and Latin America and the decentralization of northern industry and the increasing number of southern branch plants now being established.

Y'S MEN'S CLUB GIVES $50 TO FUND DRIVE

Members Act To Buy 10 Shares in Campaign.

At their Wednesday dinner meeting held in the Varsity room of the Y.M.C.A. the Y's Men's Service club unanimously voted to purchase ten $5 shares in support of the Marion Community Foundation. A letter was read from Cutler McGrew, president of the Y.M.C.A. board of directors, expressing the appreciation of the board for the club's decision permitting the Community Foundation to hold their "kick-off" meeting in the Club Co-Ed rooms.

Richard Myers club president, said that the chairmanship for the annual high school football banquet had rotated to another service club this year, but announced that Jean Smith and James Arnold would comprise a committee to arrange the location and meals for the banquet.

The speaker was Kenneth R. Robinson Marion county member of the state legislature. Mr. Robinson was served two terms as Marion city solicitor and was in the counter intelligence corps during World War II, spoke on the makeup and functioning of the state legislature. He pointed out that the present Ohio senate was made up of 36 senators elected from 34 senatorial districts and that 139 representatives currently comprise the house of representatives.

In explaining the general assembly operating procedure, he said that all bills introduced are first referred to committees for hearings and are then placed on the house and senate calendars by the rules committees. He said 852 pieces of legislation were proposed to the two legislative bodies during the session which adjourned June 30 and out of this number 245 actually were passed. In concluding his talk, the representative briefly discussed the four constitutional amendments which will appear on the November ballot.

HERBERT LOSES PANTS

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert lost his pants Wednesday night—at least one pair of them. They were part of $500 worth of loot which a burglar took from Gray's press shop. The burglar overlooked the governor's mottled gray striped coat.

In Asthma Treatment, Find Allergy if Possible

Asthma shows itself in attacks of difficult breathing. The victim feels himself in the grip of some cruel, constrictive force which will let him get air into the lungs, but makes it difficult for him to get it out. The process of breathing, usually so easy and natural, is accomplished only by great effort and is accompanied by panting, wheezing and coughing.

Some cases of asthma are due to allergy or over-sensitivity to certain foods or to something which is breathed, such as dust or pollen. Thus, the first step in treating asthma is an attempt to determine those substances to which the patient is sensitive. This is usually done by means of skin tests. Extracts of various suspected foods, pollen and dusts are injected into the skin and guilty substances identified when a reaction in the form of a red swelling occurs at the point of the injection.

When these substances are discovered, attacks of asthma can be prevented by avoiding contact with them.

All too often, however, these offending substances cannot be determined. Then treatment must be concentrated on relieving the attacks when they occur. Certain drugs among them epinephrine, ephedrine and aminophylline are useful in this way.

According to Dr. Samuel J. Prigal, and his co-workers, of New York, asthmatic attacks may be relaxed by breathing in the aminophylline. About forty patients were relieved, in some cases permanently, by this treatment.

In carrying out the treatment, a simple apparatus combining a steam generator and a device for nebulizing the aminophylline, that is, mixing it with air, is employed. It can be used either in the office of the physician or at home by the patient.

The device is made up of two containers, one for water and one for the aminophylline solution. When water in one container is heated, steam is formed which passes over the outlet from the container with the aminophylline. This forms a vacuum which draws up the aminophylline, and it is then expelled from the nozzle in the form of a fine mist which is mixed with the steam. The treatment lasts from ten to fifteen minutes and may be repeated in fifteen minutes if necessary.

It would appear that this type of treatment for asthma is easily carried out, and since the evidence indicates that it gives relief from asthmatic attacks, it would appear worth while employing. Of course, further investigation of its usefulness should be made.

It is to be remembered that aminophylline has been used for some years in the treatment of asthma, but it was necessary to inject this to get the most effective results. By using it as an inhalant it becomes more simple and less painful to administer and is just as effective.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. G.: For many years I have been having a "cobwebby" appearance before my eyes. What causes this?

Answer: "Spots before the eyes" is a symptom that appears in several diseases. It may be due to constipation, to a defect in the vision, to high blood pressure, or to migraine. A thorough examination by a physician is necessary before the exact cause can be determined; then proper treatment can be suggested. It may also be necessary to be examined by a physician specializing in the disorders of the eye.

Our Answer to the Railroads Attack Upon the Wage-Rules Program of The Railroad Brotherhoods

Railroad management has embarked upon a wildcat strike against the five operating brotherhoods and the intent of the Railway Labor Act, a federal law, it was charged today by D. B. Robertson, President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Rules governing working conditions, which have been unchanged for twenty-five years, and a request for a thirty per cent wage increase, now are being negotiated by America's railroads and the five brotherhoods.

Robertson's charges, voiced in a statement to members and local lodges of his Brotherhood, arise from his contention that a nation-wide advertising campaign sponsored by the railroad managements, constitutes a violation of the spirit of collective bargaining as established by the twenty-one year old Railway Labor Act.

"Our negotiating conferences are less than two weeks old," said Robertson, "but management representatives have decided to spend millions of dollars vilifying our proposals in a nation-wide newspaper advertising campaign.

"We hold that this is a violation of the spirit of collective bargaining—a spirit given life and meaning by the Railway Labor Act. Continued abuse of this nature can only be interpreted as deliberately provocative.

"We believe our proposals are reasonable. We have prepared a case to show why we believe them to be so. This case is being and will continue to be presented across the conference table in a peaceable and orderly manner.

"The railroad brotherhoods believe in abiding by the law, both in its spirit and in its letter. The brotherhoods have more than three generations of experience in labor relations. We have established reputations for responsibility and integrity. We will not abandon our principles in this dispute.

"The facts concerning our proposals are available to management. After reading their advertisements, it is impossible to believe that the facts have been considered. Actually, it is impossible to believe that they have ever read our requests with any particular care or thought.

"If they have, we cannot understand why they have elected to spend millions of dollars broadcasting distortions and half-truths about the changes we are asking in our working conditions.

"This effort to prejudice the American public is a particularly vicious and dangerous action. Railway managements and employes are required by law to bargain collectively. If that step fails, we are required to meet with government mediators. Should mediation prove unsuccessful, we must appear before emergency boards which have power to study the facts and make recommendations.

"The members of our Brotherhoods are groomed to the discipline of these procedures. The 'wildcat' and 'outlaw' strike are unknown among employes upon our railroads.

"But believe me, this multi-million dollar advertising campaign by the railroad managements is no more and no less than a 'wildcat' strike against federal law and the railroad Brotherhoods.

"No portion of our legal collective bargaining processes has been exhausted and the managements have no reason to undertake to provoke their employes.

"It is a pity that the huge sums of money being spent to void the spirit of the law cannot be properly conserved to meet the reasonable wage requests of employes and the rightful dividend expectations of stockholders. The railroad managements would not need to make their demands for huge freight rate increases if the expenditure of these sums had been undertaken with greater wisdom," Robertson's statement concluded.

Pocketbooks for Men Proposed by Designers

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—Men carry pocketbooks?

Sure, says the Fashion Foundation of America, it's better than bulging like a potato sack by cramming odds and ends into pockets.

And after pulling that suggestion out of its hat, the foundation got around yesterday to naming the 10 best dressed men of 1947.

No. 1 was President Truman—the best dressed statesman "by his choice of hats." Other selections included:

Ted Collins, owner of the Boston Yanks professional football team; Grover Whalen, socialite Byron C. Foy, Harry Conover, Cary Grant, Guy Lombardo, shipping executive William Harloe, Basil Rathbone and family court Judge P. James Pellecchia of Newark, N. J.

The foundation, which said the choices were based on a survey by Ben Russell, custom tailor, made one other point—men's trousers should not be lengthened or shortened "no matter what the women do."

ASHLAND COMES FROM BEHIND TO EDGE HARDING, 20-19

Fullback Cliff Hurst of "A's" Proves Too Much for Prexies

By BILL DIEM

Gloom hit the Prexy dressing room after the game at Ashland last night and the silence fairly shrieked "Cliff Hurst, ah, woe is us!"

The 185-pound Ashland fullback kicked-off, punted, and converted for the A's, and charged through the Harding line for an average gain of five and a half yards per try in 25 plays to lay Harding low, 20-19, and snap a Prexy five-game winning streak.

Trailing 13-7 at the half, the Ashland A's roared out on the field, took the kickoff, and chopped the Presidents' line to shreds on a march downfield from their own 15-yard line. Seven first downs and 20 plays later, Dick Burns plunged over from the one to tie up the score at 13-13. Hurst carried the ball 11 times on that conquering march, and averaged 5.3 yards per try. Fackler and Dick Burns spelled him off.

"Due for It"

"We were due for it," said Prexy Coach Pete Howison after the game. "After I saw that drive, I knew we'd had it. Our boys have been thinking about Fremont Ross and forgot there were teams in between."

It was a great game, the most exciting the Prexies have played this season. The Harding gridders matched Ashland on touchdowns, but lost the game on conversions.

Big Jim Coss was the Prexy gun in the game, tossing three touchdown passes to Bishop, Taylor and Hill.

Ashland opened the scoring late in the first quarter after a bad lateral from Dick Leffler to Clarence Smith was recovered by Ashland's center, McAllister, on the Harding 18. Hurst and Dick Burns carried the ball to the one-yard line in five plays, and Hurst plunged off left tackle for the touchdown. His placement for the conversion made the score 7-0.

Jim Coss ran the kickoff back 15 yards to the Harding 25, then added 42 yards on a quarterback spinner off left tackle to put the ball on the Ashland 33. Coss picked up six more yards on the same play, and an Ashland five-yard penalty made it first and 10 on the Ashland 21. After moving to the 19, Coss heaved a long pass to Jack Bishop in the end zone for the touchdown.

Dick Gherman's first dropkick for the extra point failed to materialize when a pass from center went over his head, but Ashland was offside, and he got another try, which he made good.

Ashland took the kickoff and couldn't get anywhere, Hurst tried to punt and got off a bad one that only went three yards from the line of scrimmage, and Harding took over on the A's 26.

Clarence Smith galloped 15 yards, and the Prexy drive was on. Coss moved it to the four on the "Coss special" quarterback spinner, and chucked a pass to Taylor in the end zone for the tally. Gherman's dropkick went wide and Harding led, 13-7.

The Prexies bounced back after Ashland's third quarter tieing drive, and moved from their own 46 to a touchdown in five plays. Coss picked up 12 yards through the line, and Smith sliced through left tackle for 27. Coss threw his third touchdown pass, and Jim Hill took it in the end zone for the touchdown. Again Gherman's dropkick was wide. The fourth quarter was a minute gone, and Harding led, 19-13.

Ashland started their winning touchdown drive after receiving a punt on their own 31. Jesse Poorbaugh, Dick Burns, Cliff Hurst, and a five-yard penalty against Harding moved the ball but to the 38 where it was fourth down and three yards to go.

Cliff Hurst dropped back to punt, but Poorbaugh took the ball and streaked around end to pick up seven yards and a first down. The Ashland drive was on.

Hurst, Poorbaugh and Dick Burns smashed through the Prexy line and moved to the Prexy 24-yard line in six plays. Fleet Jesse Poorbaugh dashed around left end and outran the Harding secondary to tie the score at 19-19.

Before the bedlam of the Ashland fans could shake down the bleachers, Hurst powered his way around left end to add the winning point.

Harding tried a series of desperation passes, but time ran out before they could get anywhere.

The Presidents felt the absence of right guard Dick Corwin like a machine misses a cog. Corwin was unable to dress for the game after he awoke yesterday morning to find his knee swollen about two sizes too big. Charley-horse trouble slowed down Clarence Smith, whose longest run of the game was 27 yards. Smith usually breaks away for long 70 and 80-yard runs.

Ashland was in complete control during the second half, just as the Presidents dominated the first. The Prexies gained a total of 142 yards to Ashland's 52 in the first half, but Ashland picked up 179 to Harding's 80 in the second.

Notre Dame, Southern Cal, Michigan Get Forecaster's Nod for Wins Tomorrow

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—Frank Leahy, coach of the Notre Dame football team, has enjoyed the luxury of "fearing Iowa" all the past summer. Tomorrow his players will show just how needless were the mentor's worries.

If the gridiron is dry, the South Bend frocks may turn into an aerial display between Johnny Lujack of Notre Dame and Iowa's Al Demarco but the Irish's all-around strength should be too much for the Iowans who frittered away a 13-point lead last week and wound up in a 13-13 deadlock with Ohio State.

At least, that is the opinion of this forecaster whose record of 53 correct predictions and 13 misses last week is identical with his season's average of .804.

Other predictions

Southern California-California: The honeymoon is over for California's new coach, Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf, after five straight pleasant Saturday afternoons. Southern California is talent-rich and should storm on from here to the coast title and the Rose Bowl task of trying to stop the Big Nine champion, Southern California.

Michigan-Minnesota: Michigan has averaged 55½ points for every 60 minutes of action this year. The Wolverines won't do that well against their ancient enemy but they will count enough to win, Michigan.

Illinois-Purdue: The Illini have had two extremely hard games the past two Saturdays but should have enough left to edge out Purdue although the Boilermakers' Bob DeMoss may outshine the Illinois tosser, Perry Moss, Illinois.

Army-Columbia: A year ago Columbia became the first all-civilian team to defeat Navy's football team and tomorrow makes a first-place pitch to end the Army string of victories. But it will not make the grade. Army's backfield has been revamped to give it an air-arm. Army.

Pennsylvania-Navy: This battle could go the other way very easily if Penn's great center, Charles Bednarik, is unable to play. Penn.

Alabama-Georgia: Georgia is the home team and that should give the Bulldogs the edge. But this vote goes to Alabama and Harry Gilmer. Alabama.

Texas-Rice: The Longhorns proved last week that they have a ground attack in addition to Bobby Layne's fabulous passing. Rice supposedly has an orthodox pass defense but it won't be enough. Texas.

Boston College-Villanova: The Boston Eagles should beat Villanova by the same one point margin BC lost to LSU last week. Boston College.

Penn State-West Virginia: These two teams are both unbeaten now but the Lions will remain that way for another week. Penn State.

U.C.L.A.-Southern Methodist: The Californians coasted last week while S.M.U. polished off Rice in a bruiser. U.C.L.A.

North Carolina-Florida: This may be the game in which the vaunted North Carolina attack gets rolling. North Carolina.

Harvard-Dartmouth: Four Harvard regulars are out with injuries but the Crimson has enough in reserve. Harvard.

Wake Forest-Duke: The only difference here is that the Demon Deacons are the home team. Wake Forest.

Others—Northwestern over Indiana, Ohio State over Pittsburgh and Wisconsin over Marquette.

TOUGH GRID BATTLE LOOMS FOR ANGELS

Sheridan Merchants To Play Here Saturday Night.

When the Marion Safety Cab Angels meet the Sheridan (Ind.) Merchants at the Harding stadium Saturday night they'll run into an aggregation that has been stopped but once in eight games, and that a close one to the tough Lockland Legion crew last week.

The Sheridan Merchants are coached by Charley Dodds, former All-Little-American from Butler university, who also plays quarterback and chucks most of the Sheridan passes.

Sheridan has a fast backfield and a big, charging line. Charley Dodds tosses plenty of passes that have counted for a big share of Merchants gains in past games.

The Angels have not exactly been land-locked in former games, and their aerials have also counted for substantial gains. Bud Reams, Bob Ivey and Ed Simmons have all been used on the firing end of aerials with ends Max Roseberry and Jim Gilmore catching.

Sheridan is in second place in the Inter-State league with two wins and a loss, and the Angels and Indianapolis are right behind with a 2-2 record. Lockland leads with four wins.

The Angels will have their last crack at a league opponent tomorrow, though four more games remain on their schedule after the Angel-Sheridan clash.

Probable starting Angel lineup: ends, Roseberry and Gilmore, tackles, Lust and Griffith, guards, Lewis and Obenour center, Keller, quarterback Belknap, halfbacks, Ivey and Hodges, and fullback, Scott.

ONLY ONE INJURY REPORTED BY BUCKS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24—Except for fullback Joe Whisler all key men were reported in top shape today when the Ohio State buckeyes flew to Pittsburgh for tomorrow's renewal of an 18-year-old rivalry with the Pitt Panthers.

Coach Wes Fesler, who played on the losing side when the Bucks and Pittsburgh first met in 1929 and who also coached Pitt last year, said Whisler would go along with the squad but was not likely to get into the fray.

This left the fullbacking chores to Ollie Cline, the lad whose dynamic fourth quarter play set of the spark last week when the Buckeyes bolted from behind to tie Iowa's Hawkeyes 13 to 13 here.

That Ollie should come through is predicted according to two previous performances against the Pittsburgh eleven in 1943 and 1945. Cline tallied a total of five touchdowns, the two in 1945 providing Ohio's 14 to 0 margin.

Fesler indicated the Bucks would be in just as much a victory-mood as the hapless Panthers. While Pitt hasn't won in four starts, the Ohio Staters thus far have beaten only Missouri, while losing to Purdue and Southern California and getting the Iowa deadlock.

Alex Verdova and Chuck Renner, backs injured against Iowa, were pronounced ready to participate tomorrow while Fesler said tackle Jack Jennings also would be on deck.

Bob Demmel, a right halfback, also should see action for the first time since suffering a shoulder separation against Missouri.

Reports from Pittsburgh predict a turnout of about 60,000 fans. About 4,000 Ohioans are expected to attend.

2nd Home Appearance of Irish Set Tonight Against Richwood

St. Mary gridders make a home stand tonight, meeting Richwood at the Harding stadium at 8 p. m.

A big delegation of Richwood fans is expected to accompany the team and the high school band to the Mid-State league game with the locals.

Irish Coach Gene Fetter said today that Richwood is the most important team the Irish have yet to face this season, and a win over the Tigers would virtually clinch the Mid-State league championship for St. Mary.

Richwood gridders have had an up-and-down record. They opened the season with a limp 0-0 with Groveport, came back the next week with a 19-0 aerial attack on Forest and followed with a 20-6 ground and air victory over Mechanicsburg. Then came Marysville and their first setback, 14-12. The next week, Richwood plucked the Mt. Gilead Indians, 19-6, but were slaughtered by Carey, 30-0. Richwood stands fourth in the league with a win and two losses.

The Richwood backfield, quarterback Wall, halfbacks Chenman and McElroy, and fullback Chapman, take turns carrying the mail and Wall has a chucking arm that rifles out long passes. Right tackle Woods does the Tiger kicking.

Probable starting line for Richwood: ends, Taylor and Lyon; tackles, Blue and Woods; guards, Fulton and Howard, and center Young.

EVERYONE BEFUDDLED BY OHIO STATE TEAM

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

If you think folks were a bit befuddled and bewildered by Ohio State's rugged fourth-period comeback to deadlock Iowa at 13-13, you were not alone. Even the Ohio State Lantern, campus publication, was wobbling a bit as it told the tale in this week's issue.

The Lantern carried a headline on the story like this:

Third Quarter Drive
Brings Buckeye Victory

But the facts, if you are still uncertain, were that it was a fourth-period drive (not third), and it wasn't a victory (it was a 13-13 tie.)

* * *

On the football situation, some of the sports editors around and about had such things as this to say:

Bob French, Toledo Blade: Football teams thus far haven't been handicapped by the meatless Tuesdays. But the coaches still are worried about those brainless Saturdays.

Jim Doyle, Cleveland Plain Dealer: Teams lacking consistency in other sports are referred to as in-and-outers, but in football they are up-and-downers. One week they go "zoom" and the next week they go "boom"—on their ears. And their supporters, of course, go nuts.

* * *

Si Burick, Dayton Daily News: Southern Ohio has taken the play from the northern part of the state in college football . . . where will you find a better brand of football—just under major league class—than is being played by Cincinnati, Xavier, Miami and Dayton?

* * *

Frank Ward of the Youngstown Vindicator, sidetracking football for the nonce, wheeled in with: The feature race at Beulah park recently was named after a Columbus finance company . . . The boys should have waited until the last day of the meet to run that one.

VERNON HEIGHTS P.-T.A. HONORS PAST PRESDIENTS

Past presidents were honored at a meeting celebrating the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Vernon Heights P.-T. A. Tuesday night at the school. The program opened with group singing and Mrs. John J. Stafford gave a history of the organization and early years of the group, which was first organized as the Vernon Community club.

As each past president responded to the roll call officers of the Y-Teens lighted a candle on a large birthday cake. Members of the school teaching staff were presented and three, Alwyn H. Crane, Miss Mella Van Meter and Mrs. Ferne West, who have been at the building for 25 years, were presented gifts. An informal talk was given by Supt. E. E. Holt in which he congratulated the organization on its work during the 25 years. During the ceremony honoring the past presidents, Joanne Jacobs, accompanied at the piano by Phyllis Huffman, sang. Mrs. John P. Courtright served as chairman for the anniversary observance.

BLOOMDALE SQUAD TIES LA RUE, 18-18

A touchdown in the last 30 seconds of play enabled Bloomdale to tie LaRue in a six-man football game yesterday afternoon at Bloomdale, 18-18. The LaRue team was badly crippled as Burke Ballinger crafty quarterback sprained an ankle early in the first quarter. Both Don Ledman and John Tate were used sparringly because of injured knees and Ralph Wilson fullback was still out of action with a sprained ankle received in the Caledonia game.

Marion Lightfoot tallied the first LaRue touchdown in the first period following a spinner play from the Bloomdale 25-yard line. Don Ledman intercepted a Bloomdale pass in the second session and galloped 50 yards for the tally. Lightfoot again plunged over the three yard line for the third period score. Dunn, Bloomdale quarterback, scored twice for the Woods county team and Treece returned a LaRue kickoff for a touchdown in the second session.

OHIO PACE-SETTERS DRAW "BREATHERS"

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24—Bluffton and Case, the two Ohio college elevens with the poorest records this season, will try to stop the pace-setters this weekend.

Findlay's Oilers, the winningest team in the state with five successive triumphs, take their perfect record to Bluffton Saturday night.

John Carroll's Blue Streaks, the state conference front-runners with three wins in as many starts, go up against once-powerful Case the same night at Cleveland. Carroll has dropped one non-conference game.

Neither Case nor Bluffton has managed to win or tie a game this fall in four starts. Offensively, both have scored a total of 18 points while allowing the opposition an average of 20 or more points each game.

If Case should upset the Blue Streaks, it probably would pave the way for Muskingum to move into the conference drivers' seat. Unchecked in four games—two in the league—the Muskies are host Saturday afternoon to thrice-beaten Wooster, which already has gone down before John Carroll and Findlay.

Carroll currently sets the league pace with a 3-0 record. Findlay and Muskingum are second with 2-0, and Denison is next with a 1-0 mark. Every other league club has dropped at least one conference game.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

I DO not think my right hand ever itched to administer a sound slap to a face as it did when Georges voiced his question concerning Noel and Mary. And I saw by the expressions on my husband's face, and those of the Underwoods, that they shared my annoyance at the timid playboy.

My father's face, and that of Mr. "K", the FBI aide, guarding Georges, remained inscrutable, but I thought I saw an amused glint in Mr. "K's" eyes which told me that he had caught the disturbing effect of Georges' query.

I tried valiantly to give the exfiancé young Lord of Trees, who for so long had been romantically interested in Mary, the benefit of the doubt. Coming from anyone else, I told myself, the question would have been a most natural one. Noel was the only son of Phillip Verniers. Mary, his wife and Dicky's niece, was to be starred in the play I was writing for production by her father-in-law, Broadway impresario. Their presence at a house party such as my father had outlined would be expected. Their absence, indeed, would demand explanation.

My father's answer was prompt and matter-of-fact.

"Ordinarily they would be of the party, yes," he said. "But Mrs Noel Verniers's return from the sanitarium, and her long illness there, are too recent for her to join in anything as exciting as the house party, the wedding, and your dramatic return would be. She is convalescent, certainly, but she is being guarded from all undue excitement, and besides, she is absorbed in studying the lines of her role in my daughter's play."

I had hard work not to clap my hands together in childish applause of my father. He so adroitly had conveyed the impression that Mary was far too busy to bother with anything so far from her interest as the marriage of Georges, that I knew the ego of Mary's one-time suitor—and betrothed—must have received a fine Dicky calls a solar plexus blow.

But Georges' face betrayed no chagrin. Instead, a horrified expression flashed into his eyes.

"Mary ill a long time, and in a sanitarium" he exclaimed. "Why didn't somebody tell me. But of course"—he pulled himself together—"I have had only the smallest of messages; no chance for news of anyone. But, tell me, is she all right again. And what was the matter? Overwork and overstrain, I suppose. I was afraid she was headed for a breakdown when I saw her last."

I drew a sharp breath of relief. Either he was putting on a good act or he was using just the right tone, that of a man concerned about the illness of any good friend. I prayed fervently that the latter alternative was the correct one, even as I answered his questions.

"Mary is perfectly all right again," I said, "but Mrs. Bickett, who fortunately is temporarily with us, is taking care of her, seeing to it that she doesn't overdo. Mr. Verniers wishes to start rehearsals in six weeks, and she is studying her role with her usual diligence and enthusiasm."

"Proobably overworking, as usual," Georges commented.

"Mrs Bickett is competently attending to that," I told him.

"But why did she have to go to a sanitarium?" Georges persisted. "She must have been seriously ill."

"She was," I said. "She had an attack of pneumonia and it left her in so weakened a condition that her physicians decided a sanitarium in the west was the only safeguard against something more serious."

"Wasn't Noel with her?" His tone, or so I fancied, held the implication that if he had been in Noel's place, he would have been at Mary's side constantly.

"He was not permitted to be with her," I replied. "No one of her family was with her."

"Good God!" he ejaculated. "Poor Mary! But you say she is all right now?"

I wanted to say rudely "You heard me the first time," but with an effort I said:

"Yes, she has made a remarkable recovery. But her physician naturally says that she must not have any unusual excitement."

"Of course not," Georges agreed. "I am glad she is better, and I can see why it would not be best for her to have the strain of our wedding."

Was my imagination working overtime, or Dicky sometimes tells me, or did that inadvertent word "strain" mean that he was conceited enough to think that his wedding to Olina would mean anything emotionally to Mary?

DESTRUCTIVE PRANKS BANNED BY JUDGE

Won't Be Tolerated Under Guise of Halloween.

Juvenile Judge Edward J. Ruzzo today asked for cooperation from the parents of Marion children to insure a Halloween observance free from vandalism, acts of depredation and violation of personal dignities.

In a public statement Judge Ruzzo warned that misconduct in the guise of Halloween pranks will be treated in the same manner as other delinquency brought into his court.

His statement:

"During the Halloween season of the year we want, and expect, our youngsters to enjoy themselves. However, this court wishes to call to the attention of parents and children the fact that vandalism, destruction of property and violation of personal dignities will not be tolerated under the guise of Halloween pranks. There is a vast difference between recreation and depredation. The latter will not be condoned. Chief of Police William E. Marks has instructed his police officers to be particularly alert at this time of year for such wanton misconduct. When brought before the court, such acts will be treated in the same manner as any other delinquency. The cooperation of the parents in this program is earnestly solicited."

New York Stock Quotations

1 O'CLOCK QUOTATIONS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—Stocks, with scattered exceptions, turned to the downside in today's market although declines generally were restricted to fractions.

Selling was described as mostly of a cautionary nature inspired by the calling of a special session of congress to halt inflation and provide quick dollar relief for Europe.

Douglas Aircraft weakened on the showing of a 9-months' net loss. On the offside were U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, General Motors, Boeing, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Western Union, Public Service of N. J., Anaconda, Du Pont, Standard Oil (NJ), Texas Co., Southern Pacific and Great Northern Railway.

Graham-Paige touched a 1947 top on an initial 10,000-share trade. Quaker State Oil hardened on a pleasing disbursement. Resistant were North American, General Electric and Goodyear.

OHIO REALTORS LINE UP WITH FOUNDATION

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Oct. 24 — The Ohio Association of Real Estate boards today was aligned with the Home and Property Owners foundation, political action union of the National Realtors' association.

Full support of the foundation was pledged in a resolution adopted at the concluding session of the Ohio association's 38th annual convention Thursday after Herbert U. Nelson of Washington, executive vice president of the national association, predicted that the foundation "might become the decisive political party of the nation."

The resolution provided for establishment of foundation chapters in every city and county of the stae. Any property owner would be eligible to join.

In other resolutions, Ohio realtors condemned the federal veterans housing program and demanded abolishment of the federal housing agency.

The statement of veterans housing said the government effort to serve the veterans in public housconsiderations and failed of its real purposes.
